

Alinma Wareef Endowment Fund

Endowments

Endowments are an important factor in social development in order to meet society's general needs. The scope of endowments and their impact on societies have progressed in the recent years. Such endowments require administrative and financial systems that need to be efficient, flexible, and transparent. This could be achieved through implementing precise policies and regulations as well as endowment governance and clear accountability in order to ensure the permanent management and development of the endowment assets. Alinma Investment took the initiative to create the first endowment investment fund in Saudi Arabia.
